Newsletter

Vol. 1

You have done well!

You are deeply loved!

These were words spoken by our 'mother' Ans when she visited us in May this year.

And these same words we share with you... You have done well and you are deeply loved.

For a long time we have had a dream of sharing our day to day life in St. Martin with our family and friends all over the world and in a small way to say thank you: to our beneficiaries, who continue to be our greatest teachers; to our volunteers, who more than us believe in the potential of every one; to our friends who have generously shared their lives with us; to our partners with whom we share the dream of a better world.

And this is why the 'Asante' newsletter was conceived. Asante is the Kiswahili word for 'thank you.' Through 'Asante', we want to say thank you but also to share what we live everyday as a way of staying close to you and to keep our dream alive.

In the 'Asante' newsletter, you will find the following:

Our Message

In this section will share a short message of inspiration or reflection connected to our experiences and what we are living in the community

Our Activities

In this section we will keep you informed about the different activities and events that are taking place in the different programmes and departments

Our Partners and Friends

In this section we will inform you about activities that we have carried out with our partners and also update you on the activities and experiences of the different visitors who pass through our doors.

Upcoming Events

Finally in this section, we will provide information about future events and activities

We hope that through this small sign, you will feel united with us as we continue our personal and communal journeys of transformation.
